

THE LINDEN LEAVES STORY

The Linden Leaves story began in 1995 with the founding of the company in the South Island of New Zealand by Brigit Blair. A well-travelled mother of three, Brigit established the Linden Leaves brand and launched immediately into export. Brigit was soon joined by her daughter Juliet, and the pair have been sharing their passion for quality ingredients, inspirational aromatic combinations and the vast array of natural botanical bounty that New Zealand offers, with the rest of the world for fifteen years.

A CONSIDERED APPROACH

With pure ingredients and exacting attention to detail, Linden Leaves combines nature and science to create balanced skincare, designed to nourish the skin and nurture the soul.

Drawing on the benefits of essential oils, plant derived exfoliants, natural moisturisers and a unique New Zealand heritage, Linden Leaves offers a spirited range of natural bodycare products with unisex fruit and plant derived fragrances, to care for the skin and delight the soul.

THE BEST LOCAL BLEND

To maintain the highest possible quality of ingredients, we source ingredients both locally and throughout New Zealand, and in some cases internationally, dependent on quality and consistency of supply.

Most of our natural botanical ingredients are grown, selected and sustainably harvested in New Zealand before being carefully sorted and added by hand.

Linden Leaves bath salts make exclusive use of natural Pacific Ocean sea salt. These natural salt crystals are harvested from the pristine waters of our sparsely populated South Island coastline. According to official census details, there are less than 2 people per square kilometre residing along this beautiful, untamed coastal stretch.

Supporting sustainable practices and local industry is an important part of the Linden Leaves philosophy, together with a devotion to creating products which meet and exceed world standards in quality, presentation and appeal.
